

LIVELY IMAGINATION

The Greeks wrapped the seeds of melons in rose leaves, with which they were afterward sown.

Maintaining that, at maturity, the delectable melon was impregnated with sweet emanations.

And that its flavor called to mind its delightful abode with the queen of flowers.

Thus, in imagination at least, they enjoyed melons as deliciously flavored as those served at CHILDS.

London, ripe cantaloupes, so cool and refreshing as a quail from a crystal spring.

'GYPPED,' HE SAYS

Diamond Marty Explains
Why He Stopped $200

PLAYED DRUNK AND SAW

Giver of Parties and Backer of Playwrights Spent $150,000 Seeing Broadway.

John Martin Kline knows Broadway. He said yesterday that he knows every little twist and turn in its winding course, and he added that it cost him $150,000 to gain his profound knowledge. There is something reminiscent about his story. Others before John Martin Kline have studied Broadway. Moreover, they did it when there was no constitutional barrier up against them. They studied Broadway when highballs came two for a quarter and it cost them as much and more than it has John Martin Kline.

Mr. Kline is known on Broadway as "Diamond Marty." He is a real estate broker, a backer of play producers and he lived at the Hotel Hamilton, 143 West Seventy-third street. He had just returned to his hotel from the West Side court yesterday when he told a New York Herald reporter what it cost him to make an extensive survey of the ins and outs of Broadway, doing most of it at night and indoors, of course.

Gypped Him "With Abandon."
"And while I haven't got time to go into details," said "Diamond Marty," "take it from me that they took fine, gypped? Why, they gypped me with all the abandon you relieve a pie of its peaches."

Mr. Kline has been in the West Side Court on a warrant procured by Harry Reichbach, a captain of waiters in a fifty-eighth street establishment that has long been a favorite classroom for those who have been pursuing the learning that cost Mr. Kline $150,000. Mr. Reichbach's complaint was that Diamond Marty gave a party in the fifty-eighth street place and that he paid therefor with a check for $300. Mr. Reichbach complained that Diamond Marty had stopped payment on the check and that it was his opinion that Marty should do no less than go to jail unless the $300 in real money was forthcoming. But Mr. Reichbach did not appear in court when Marty was held.

With Diamond Marty in court was his lawyer, Joseph B. Rosenbach, and the latter was prepared to tell the court a story that would have required no end of explaining from Mr. Reichbach and his employer.

"Bled by Everybody."
"About three months ago I began these parties," said Diamond Marty. "Dave Lamar, the far famed Wolf of Wall Street, was my guest, and then I gave many parties, and presently a few of my friends came to me and told me what a boob I was. They told me that I was being bled by nearly everybody and especially the cafe where I staged the parties."

"You see I'd buy wine—champagne. I think they call it in the upper circles—and while I might pay for a dozen bottles I really got fewer than six of them. So on the suggestion of a friend I played drunk and waited waiters fetch four quarts of wine to my table and open one bottle and steal three. I saw them take it back to the kitchen. I don't know how many times I bought the same wine over and over again. Well, I paid the $300 check, but then next morning stopped payment on it."

Magistrate Simpson, realizing that this was the third time that Diamond Marty had been in court on the same warrant and that in none of the instances had Reichbach appeared, gave a summons for the latter to be before Detective Grady and said that unless the captain of waiters appeared in court to-day to face Marty a warrant for his arrest would be issued.

TWO WOMEN IN RACE FOR ASSEMBLY JOBS

Mrs. Baer in Mt. Vernon; Mrs. Muller in Monticello.

Mrs. Mabel McKinley Baer, wife of Dr. H. L. Baer and a niece of former President McKinley, announced her candidacy for the Republican nomination to the Assembly in the First Assembly district of Westchester yesterday. She will run on the so-called "insurgent ticket," which is opposing William L. Ward's organization in Westchester county. Her opponent is Thomas Channing Moore of Bronxville, who is serving his second term in the State Legislature.

Mrs. Baer was induced to run by Elmer L. Kincaid, former mayor of Mount Vernon. She is expected to make her campaign attacking the "shabby treatment" of women by the Republican organization of this county.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
MONTICELLO, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Practically assured of an overwhelming vote in the primaries, Mrs. Elizabeth Ward Muller of this village and New York to-day announced she would be a candidate for the Republican nomination for member of Assembly from Sullivan county. Mrs. Muller's decision followed a meeting of the Republican County Committee here yesterday, at which she was told that body would leave a clear field for aspirants for the nomination and she was as welcome as any one to make the race.

Mrs. Muller early espoused the birth control movement. Two years ago she ran for member of the assembly independently and polled a vote of several hundred in spite of the most stalwart opposition. She announced at that time a leniency toward the worst interests.

CYPRIDS' COURT MELTS AWAY
BUT ORGANIZERS STILL HOPE

Large Number of Applicants From New York Who Desire Marital Mates Prompts Plan to Bring Next Session to This City.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Aug. 17.—Having done their part in making eleven matrimonial unions Tom Delker and Lew Conley closed their cupid's court to-day, and it's just as well that they did, for their court was melting away in the terrific heat of the Palace Moving Picture Theater, where it was held. The Lover's Cooperative Union seems to be defunct. Only their grim determination to make the world happier by making it more married carried proceedings through the day. First of all Mrs. Helen Long Rodgers, the judge, quit her job, saying that it was "unspeakably silly" and "I wonder what on earth ever possessed me to become involved in it?" Next J. J. Sedgwick, foreman of the jury, went back to his job as town telegraph operator. And then two more jurors quit. The spectators had fled. Even the reporters walked out.

Nevertheless Tom and Lew proceeded to match widows against widowers and bachelors against unmarried women. A Western saleswoman, who said her yearly earnings amounted to $12,000, was paired off with a Brooklyn salesman who lacks a job. The jury had a hard time deciding in this case, because there was no explanation why any woman with $12,000 a year should marry at all.

A Battle Creek woman with $5,000 went to a northern Michigan farmer with a mortgage. A woman who demanded a man with a sense of humor was coupled with a sane motor inspector, and a woman operator of an elevator was decreed the proper mate for a stock salesman.

Tom Delker took occasion to say that no matter what the jury did on Wednesday he was not going to woo the eighteen-year-old Kentucky maiden awarded to him. Mrs. Rodgers and others gave it as their opinion that it was all a scheme by Tom and Lew to land rich wives, whereas Lew became incensed and said that he had no intention of marrying.

Tom and Lew say that there will be another session of the court next Thursday—in Atlantic City or Camden. They hope too to come to New York, where hundreds await mates. All that Tom needs is a theater and $10 a day expenses. But folks down the way think that the court has held its last session. It was much too good to last.

RECORD HEAT FOR CITY; LOW HUMIDITY

Mercury Reaches 91 Degrees, Equalling Summer's High Mark of July 13.

New York experienced a little relief yesterday from the sweltering heat wave because of the lower humidity, although the thermometer registered a higher mark than on any other day this year except July 13. The highest humidity of the day was 77 at 8 o'clock in the morning, while on Wednesday the humidity reached 88. Yesterday the temperature reached the high mark of July 13, standing at 91 at 3 in the afternoon, four degrees above the maximum of Wednesday.

In other sections of the country, however, the heat wave appeared to be worse. Four deaths and many prostrations were reported in Chicago, with a temperature of 90 degrees, and in Indianapolis the weather set a new record when the thermometer registered 95 degrees. Only one heat prostration was reported there. In Bristol, Conn., the Sessions Foundry Company, employing 400 men, was forced to suspend work.

The New York police reported only one death from the heat and but three prostrations. James Hunt, aged 50, of 121st street and Park avenue, employed on a building at 193rd street and Park avenue, The Bronx, was overcome and died later in Fordham Hospital.

Isidore Markin, 187 Main street, Long Island City, and Frank Klausner, 214 East 144th street, The Bronx, and Chonny Gatt, 158 East Fifty-first street, were taken to the hospital.

The forecast for to-day in New York promises some relief in the form of a slight southerly wind. It will be generally fair, with not much change in temperature. The lowest temperature yesterday was 72 at 7 o'clock in the morning, while the lowest humidity was 41 at 2 o'clock and again at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. From 10 o'clock to 6 the temperature ranged from 81 to 88, with a jump to 91 at 3 o'clock.

Several drownings were reported. Stephen Woodbine of 47 Ninth street, Jersey City, was found lying half overboard in a rowboat in Newark Bay by Gustav Ernie of 159 New York avenue, Jersey City. His head was under water and his feet were caught under a thwart.

Louisa Green of 844 South Sixteenth street, Newark, was drowned while swimming in Newark Bay with Benjamin Apario of 539 East 134th street. Apario tried to save his companion and was himself almost drowned when Green threw his arms about him and sank.

Salvatore Palmorio, 15 months old of 23 Rose avenue, Newark, fell into the Morris Canal at Sixth street and Heller Parkway and was drowned.

D. W. Riker, a sailor of the battleship Maryland, tried to jump from a motor boat to a float in the Hudson off Ninety-seventh street. He fell into the water and was drowned.

James P. Kane, 27, of Sheridan Boulevard, far Rockaway, drowned while sinking a mooring for small craft in Jamaica Bay off Beach Thirty-sixth street yesterday afternoon when the small boat from which he was lowering the heavy mooring capsized. Kane was thrown out. The body was found last night.

W. Taylor Wilson, 50, of Marlan avenue, Mount Kisco, was drowned in an attempt to save an unidentified woman from drowning off Croton Point in the Hudson River yesterday afternoon. Wilson was one of the directors of the Croton Point Land Company, which owns and rents bungalows at that place for summer camping.

With his wife and married daughter he was camping in his cottage there. In swimming yesterday afternoon he went to the rescue of a woman who called for help. He was overcome and drowned. Two other men saved the woman.

Wilson was regent of the Mount Kisco Lodge, Royal Arcanum. He is survived by his wife and two children.

Stella Duffy, 9, and her brother, William, 5, were drowned in the Shrewsbury River at Rumson, N. J., yesterday afternoon as Robert Duffy, 15, their big brother, tried in vain to rescue them after he had exhausted himself in saving the lives of two other sisters, Rose, 5, and Veronica, 7.

The five children, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. William J. Duffy of 1225 Garden street, Hoboken, had gone to Rumson for a swim.

THINKS BOOTLEGGERS
MURDERED GIBERSON

Wife's Attorney Hires Detectives to Watch Former Companions of Victim.

FUNERAL IS HELD

Wife, in Jail, Not Allowed to Attend Services at Lakehurst.

FORMER HUSBAND CLEW

Although He Had Not Been Heard From for Years, He Wrote Twice Before Murder.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
TOMS RIVER, N. J., Aug. 17.—The Giberson murder mystery, so far as the finding of new evidence against Mrs. Ivy Giberson is concerned, stands to-night just where it stood forty-eight hours ago, in spite of the efforts of the County Prosecutor, Wilfred H. Jayne. Mr. Jayne, in discussing the case to-day, would not mention the possibility of another arrest, of which there have been rumors, but he declared that he was still greatly interested in the theory that Giberson was chloroformed before he was shot. He firmly believes that Mrs. Giberson killed her husband, and it is on this belief that he is basing his investigations.

William H. Jeffrey, attorney for the accused woman, who is still in jail here, has sent for two private detectives and said that as soon as they arrived he would put them to work trying to dig up evidence to corroborate Mrs. Giberson's story that she was bound and gagged by two men who killed Giberson.

Suspects Two Men.
Jeffrey said to-day that he has two men under suspicion. Both of these men have been hanging about the village of Lakehurst for several days, mingling with the crowd that Giberson associated with. It is understood that Jeffrey believes these men were associated with Giberson in certain gambling and bootlegging operations and that they might have quarreled with him and then decided to rob him.

The body of Giberson was buried to-day in the Riverside Cemetery, his funeral causing considerable commotion in Lakehurst. Mrs. Giberson tried to get her lawyer to obtain permission from the authorities for her to attend the funeral, but he was not able to do so. It was feared that there would be trouble if she was allowed to go, as the feeling against her in the Giberson family runs high. But all of the Gibersons were there and many of the Thompsons, Mrs. Giberson's family, including her three brothers, Herbert, Henry and William; her father, Leroy Thompson, and her son, Joseph Richmond, or Meehan. Giberson's sister, Mrs. Nellie Bowers, became hysterical during the services and could not be quieted until she had been taken outside the house.

Denies Previous Robbing.
Attorney Jeffrey said to-day that there was no truth in the report that Mrs. Giberson has been bound and robbed three times during the last few years. He said that she was robbed in Trenton ten years ago, two notes entering the restaurant which she and Giberson owned and stealing $18 from the till after she had fainted. But Jeffrey said there was no truth in the story given out by County Detective Ellis Parker that she was robbed in Lakehurst shortly after she and Giberson went there to live.

Mrs. Giberson's attorney said to-day that after an absence and a silence of several years Mrs. Giberson's former husband, John Meehan of North Cambridge, Mass., recently wrote to her twice in two weeks. It does not now appear, however, what moved Meehan to write to his former wife after so long a silence, nor does it appear that the letter had any bearing on the subsequent actions of Mrs. Giberson. She and Meehan were married in Ontario, N. Y., twenty-three years ago, and one son was born, who is now known as Joseph Richmond. He took the name of his maternal grandmother, by whom he was reared.

Young Richmond said to-day at the funeral of his stepfather that he did not like the way he had been treated or the things that had been said about his mother. He denied emphatically that he had been carrying around a large sum of money. He said he had $50 when he went on his vacation and had about $25 left. If he had $1,000, he said, as has been reported, he would have gone to San Francisco long ago.

Prosecutor Jayne said to-night that he does not expect any important developments in the case for some time. He is not looking for a motive particularly, contending that under the Jersey law it is not necessary to establish a motive. Detective Parker has gone to his home at Mount Holly for three or four days and it is said that he will do no work on the case until he returns.

But All Escape in High Power Boat.

While passengers of the steamship Homeric were being landed and having their baggage examined on Pier 59, North River, yesterday, three revolver shots sounded in rapid succession. They were fired by Customs Guard Charles Ostman at a motor boat carrying seven men with liquor said to have been taken from the ship.

Ostman was on the lower deck of the pier when he caught sight of members of the crew of the motor boat hurrying across the after deck of the steamer with bulging clothing. When the men reached the pier Ostman called on them to halt, but they only increased their pace and leaped over the side of the pier into a fifty foot high powered motor craft.

While the seven men crouched in the bottom of the boat between Piers 58 and 59 the engine was put on at full speed. Ostman then fired three shots over the boat which was well out of the slip at the time. The passengers ran to the south side of the pier to see the motor boat go down stream at full speed. The boat which escaped was one of a fleet of six which was standing off the end of Pier 59.

Burns to Death When
Iron Sets Her Hair Afire

MRS. IZETTE MCGILL, aged 24, of Long Beach, L. I., was making her toilet yesterday when an electric hair iron set fire to her hair. Sparks ignited her dress and when her husband, Felix McGill, ground keeper at the Lido Golf Club, reached the room in response to her cries he found her enveloped in flames. The fire was smothered, but Mrs. McGill died soon afterward.

several years Mrs. Giberson's former husband, John Meehan of North Cambridge, Mass., recently wrote to her twice in two weeks. It does not now appear, however, what moved Meehan to write to his former wife after so long a silence, nor does it appear that the letter had any bearing on the subsequent actions of Mrs. Giberson. M'KINLEY BOOTLEG
ACCUSER RETAINED

Dismissed Agent Who Implicated Illinois Senator Is Made Investigator.

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—Joseph A. Tatro, special agent of the Internal Revenue Department, ousted from the Government service on the ground that he made untrue charges involving United States Senator William B. McKinley and his secretary, Chester Willoughby, in the fraudulent removal of whisky from warehouses, has been retained as an aid by Hinton G. Clabaugh, special investigator of Federal officers here.

Mr. Tatro, in letters to David Nolan, intelligence unit chief, denied he made the charges against the Illinois Senator and his secretary, but declared that he will continue investigations in which he has been engaged and that he might make some sensational disclosures involving some of the persons I am charged with having named." Tatro declared that he was dismissed as a result of a conspiracy to get him out of the way.

The story of his dismissal centers around the removal of 1,800 cases of whisky valued at $53,000 from a warehouse last April. The liquor was removed by a fictitious drug company
